

COMPUTER SYSTEM AND METHOD FOR PRODUCING INTEGRATED PRODUCT FORECASTS

Abstract of the Disclosure:

A computer system and method for producing an integrated product forecast from multiple preexisting product forecasts. Upon receiving parameters of an integrated product forecast desired by a user, data associated with preexisting product forecasts (such as pharmaceutical product forecasts) is preferably filtered to identify matching product forecasts. Data associated with the matching product forecasts is then used to produce the integrated product forecast, either in spreadsheet form or otherwise.